DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Group I, claims 1-3 and 8, in the reply filed on 02 February 2004 is acknowledged.
2. Claims 4-7 and 9-12 have been withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected inventions, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 02 February 2002.

Specification

3. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.
4. In view of the abstract page also reciting the title, applicant is also required to resubmit the abstract. Applicant is urged to consider not including the title of the application on the abstract page.

Claim Objections

5. Claims 1-3 and 8 are objected to because of the following informalities: The claim number needs to be followed with a period (.) prior to the text of the claim. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

6. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-3 and rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter, which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. As set forth in Enzo Biochem Inc., v. Calgene, Inc. (CAFC, 1999) 52 USPQ2d at 1135, bridging to 1136:

To be enabling, the specification of a patent must teach those skilled in the art how to make and use the full scope of the claimed invention without 'undue experimentation.' " Genentech, Inc. v. Novo Nordisk, A/S, 108 F.3d 1361, 1365, 42 USPQ2d 1001, 1004 (Fed. Cir. 1997) (quoting In re Wright, 999 F.2d 1557, 1561, 27 USPQ2d 1510, 1513 (Fed. Cir. 1993)). Whether claims are sufficiently enabled by a disclosure in a specification is determined as of the date that the patent application was first filed, see Hybritech, Inc. v. Monoclonal Antibodies, Inc., 802 F.2d 1367, 1384, 231 USPQ 81, 94 (Fed. Cir. 1986).... We have held that a patent specification complies with the statute even if a "reasonable" amount of routine experimentation is required in order to practice a claimed invention, but that such experimentation must not be "undue." See, e.g., Wands, 858 F.2d at 736-37, 8 USPQ2d at 1404 ("Enablement is not precluded by the necessity for some experimentation . . . However, experimentation needed to practice the invention must not be undue experimentation. The key word is 'undue,' not 'experimentation.' ") (footnotes, citations, and internal quotation marks omitted). In In re Wands, we set forth a number of factors which a court may consider in determining whether a disclosure would require undue experimentation. These factors were set forth as follows: (1) the quantity of experimentation necessary, (2) the amount of direction or guidance presented, (3) the presence or absence of working examples, (4) the nature of the invention, (5) the state of the prior art, (6) the relative skill of those in the art, (7) the predictability or unpredictability of the art, and (8) the breadth of the claims. Id. at 737, 8 USPQ2d at 1404. We have also noted that all of the factors need not be reviewed when determining whether a disclosure is enabling. See Amgen, Inc. v. Chugai Pharm. Co., Ltd., 927 F.2d 1200, 1213, 18 USPQ2d 1016, 1027 (Fed. Cir. 1991) (noting that the Wands factors "are illustrative, not mandatory. What is relevant depends on the facts.").

7. Claims 1-3 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is not supported by either a specific and substantial asserted utility or a well-established utility.

8. In order to satisfy utility requirements, either the claimed invention must satisfy the utility requirement on its own or that it gives rise to a product that in a downstream manner, satisfies the utility requirement.

9. The claimed invention is directed to the identification of specific polymorphisms in a known gene. Knowledge of the existence of a polymorphism in and of its self does not rise to the level of a substantial utility. Knowledge of the polymorphism, coupled with some downstream utility that is both credible and substantial can fulfill the utility requirements. Page 1, first paragraph, of the specification teaches that the MCT-1 polymorphisms can be used “in [the] treatment of diseases with MCT-1 transportable drugs.” The specification does not, however, teach with specificity just which drugs they are and how the polymorphisms are to be used in such a manner. While various documents have been cited in the body of the disclosure, they have not been incorporated by reference and as such, applicant cannot now rely upon them for satisfaction of either the enablement, written description or best mode requirements of 35 USC 112, first paragraph. Accordingly, the asserted utility has not been found to be credible and specific.

10. Claims 1-3 and 8 are also rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph. Specifically, since the claimed invention is not supported by either a specific and substantial asserted utility or a well established utility for the reasons set forth above, one skilled in the art clearly would not know how to use the claimed invention.

Art Unit: 1634

11. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

12. Claims 1-3 and 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

13. Claim 1 is indefinite with respect to what constitutes "MCT-1." Claims 2, 3, and 8, which depend from claim 1, fail to overcome this issue and are similarly rejected. Applicant is urged to consider amending claim 1 where the full name for the abbreviated term is used in the first instance, with the abbreviation following in parenthesis.

14. Claim 1 is confusing as to how one is "diagnosing" a polymorphism. Seemingly applicant is detecting or determining the presence of a polymorphism

15. Claim 8 provides for the use of a polymorphism, but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

16. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).
